A fifty cent ($.50) charge per week not to exceed $3.00 per item will be assessed for all books, DVDs, music CDs, videos and/or periodicals that are not returned within seven [7] days after the due date.

Late notices will automatically be sent via email. It is patron's responsibility to keep contact information up to date. If no email is provided, the first notice may be made after one week late.

The Library Board sets costs for replacement items. These costs are set out in the Next system.

In the case of a natural disaster such as a fire or tornado the library will forgive fines for the lost items. In case of theft the library may forgive finds if the report has been filed.

Charges for Lost or Damaged Materials:

The Richmond Public Library understands that books and media experience normal wear and tear as they are used. The library balances normal wear and tear against damages that might make the public reluctant to use the material. Readability is one consideration; appearance is another. The guidelines cover any material that the library checks out to the public. As regulated by state statute, all damaged and withdrawn materials remain the property of the library.

Fees for damages materials will be charged when the condition of an item makes it unsuitable to be returned to the collection.

Patrons are discouraged from replacing a damaged or lost item with an item purchased personally. Any request to do so must be cleared by the Library Director in charge of the collection. For out of print items, the Library Director will determine a fair value based on the type of material lost or damaged and select a similar replacement item.

Normal wear and tear or minor damage is to be expected as items circulate. This includes: book falling from spine; frayed edges; tears on spine channel; CD, DVD, or cassette case replacement; paper dust jacket torn/marked; and pages torn.

Examples of major damage that require withdrawal of materials include: animal chews/teeth marks; liquid damage; pages stuck together; extensive marking/comments; pages marked/burned/missing; cracked/broken/chipped discs; and swollen/mildewed; odoriferous.

Patrons will make restitution as determined by the Library Director for damages to or loss of material[s]. If the patron loses material[s], said patron will be expected to pay cost of the material[s] as set by the Library Director. If patrons account has expired, at the library director's discretion the patron's account may be deleted and the fine[s] expunged. If the individual is 17 years of age or younger, the parent or guardian is responsible to make restitution. If the item is found after restitution has been made, the Board will determine whether partial reimbursement will be assessed. If six [6] months have passed since restitution was made and the item is returned, there will be no patron reimbursement.

In the case of a natural disaster such as a fire or tornado the library will forgive the cost of the lost items. In case of theft the library may forgive replacement cost if the report has been filed.

Lost and Found

Items left at the Richmond Public Library will be held for six (6) months. After six (6) months, left items become the property of the library and the staff will dispose of the item at their discretion. The Richmond Public Library is not responsible for lost items. If a patron believes they have left their personal property at the library, the patron should contact the library staff. Flash drives and/or CD's will not be opened by library staff to ascertain to whom the items belong to.

If a child five [5] years of age or under is unsupervised in the library said child will be sent home. If a child shows up more than three [3] times without supervision the parents or guardian of said child will be sent a copy of this policy with a note that child is not allowed back into library without proper supervision.

Library Complaints:

Persons wishing to file a complaint about the Richmond Public Library should do so by contacting the Library Director. If the Director cannot resolve or explain the issue, she/he will then advise the Board of the issue. If said person wishes to speak to the Board, they may do so by asking to be put on the agenda of the next Board meeting.

Persons wishing to file a complaint about the library director should contact the current library board chair. If wishing to file a complaint about any other library employee, the individual should contact the Library Director.

Library Material Challenge:

It is the policy of the Richmond Public Library that we will listen to any patron who challenges library material. Patrons wishing to challenge any material in the library will be required to fill out a “Request For Reconsideration Of Library Resource” form [found in Forms section of this manual] and submit it to the Library Director. The Director will read the form and review the material. The material will then be reviewed by at least one [1] Board Member and be discussed at the next Board meeting. The Board will then hold a discussion about the material, and the patron will be notified of the decision.

If the patron disagrees with the decision, they may choose to address the Board in person. If they request, the patron will be put on the agenda of the next board meeting, or the patron may ask the Board Chairman to hold a special meeting. The decision about a special meeting will be left up to the Board Chairman.

Steps for a request for reconsideration of library resource:

1. Fill out form
2. Give form to Director
3. Review of material
4. Book discussed at Board meeting
5. Decision made on material
6. Patron informed of decision

RESOURCE COLLECTION POLICY

Who Selects Books:

The Library Board is responsible for the library collection. The Board has given the Director the responsibility as part of his/her job description. The Director will buy/order books, magazines DVDs, music CD's, videos and other appropriate Library material. The Director will take into consideration requests from Library patrons, staff and the Library Board. The final decision will be left up to the Library Director.

In compliance with our constitutional right of freedom of speech and freedom of the press, the Library will attempt to provide the widest range of viewpoints based on the quality, cost, and availability of the materials for purchase, as much as the Library budget allows.

Suggestions:

Book and movie suggestions are welcome from patrons and Trustees.

Criteria for selection:

Materials are selected to meet the reading needs of the community. We strive to have material with literary and cultural value, as well as books that are merely for entertainment.

We subscribe to the "Library Bill Of Rights" found at Appendix A.

The Freedom To Read:

We subscribe to “The Freedom to Read” statement. This statement is with our library policy (found at Appendix B) and also displayed, in part, on the library wall.

Special books and items given to the library that are not for patrons to check out will be kept in the cabinet on the adult side of library. These items include old school annuals, old maps, and Richmond history items. These items may be viewed in the library with permission by the Library Director.

The library will strive to keep a record of as much of the local history as it can. We have books in our Kansas collection, as well as our Genealogy collection.

Memorials and/or Gifts: Books, movies and other items:

We will gladly accept donated books, DVDs, music CDs, and videos and add them to our circulation if they are deemed useful for the Library. Excess books will be sold for the benefit of the Library. If they cannot be sold, they will be taken to the thrift shop in Garnett. If the material is not useful to the Library [i.e. pages falling out, mold, torn pages] or accepted at the thrift shop it may be destroyed. A Donated Library Material Form [found in the Forms section of this manual] may be requested at the time of the donation. If patron wishes to have a value put on the form, the Donor must set the value. Other gifts such as food or clothing may be accepted by the librarians. Food will be for all Library staff to share. Gifts other than food will be deemed Library property. Exception will be gifts given to staff at NEKLS events. Memorials will become library property after two (2) years.

Rebinding:

If a book is new, a best effort will be made to repair. The Director will make the determination on whether older books are worth saving.

Withdrawal and Discard [Weeding]:

The Library needs to continuously evaluate its collection in response to the changing nature of its community through the weeding and replacement of its titles. The weeded material will then be sold for profit to the library or discarded if in bad shape.

The process will be done by the librarians and may be assisted by a trained volunteer. Weeded material in fair condition will be sold. All proceeds will go to the Richmond Public Library. Any non-usable material will be discarded.

Surplus Property

The library has no control over the information on the Internet and cannot be held responsible for its content. Restriction of a minor's access to the Internet is the responsibility of the parent or legal guardian. Within the above limitations, the Library follows policies and procedures that support maximum safety for minors when accessing the Internet at the library.

- I. Using library computer workstations in an inappropriate manner, as defined herein is prohibited. Members of library staff are under no obligation to monitor library computer workstation usage and accept no responsibility for investigating the manner in which those workstations are used. When, however, a member of the library staff observes a patron using a workstation in violation of the following subsections, the patron will be deemed to be using the workstation in an unacceptable manner, resulting in any or all of the following consequences:
 1. Immediate termination of the Internet session.
 2. Additional suspension of computer use or other library use privileges.
 3. Notification of appropriate law enforcement officials.

Materials on the Internet may be subject to copyright laws. Copyrighted materials may not be copied without permission of the copyright holder unless the proposed use falls within the definition of "fair use." (United States Code, title 17, Section 107)

- II. Patrons shall not access or exhibit inappropriate matter on library Internet workstations. Inappropriate matter shall include obscene matter, matter harmful to minors, or materials containing sexual exploitation of children, as defined by Kansas Statutes and the Children's Internet Protection Act.

Specifically:

1. Patrons shall not access or exhibit obscene material on library computer workstations. Disseminating or exhibiting obscene material is a crime in the state of Kansas. See K.S.A. 21-4301 as amended.
2. Patrons shall not access material or computer-generated images deemed harmful to minors. See K.S.A. 21-4301a and K.S.A. 21-4301c, as amended.

3. Patrons shall not use the library computer workstations in a manner that allows them to possess a computer-generated image that contains or incorporates sexual exploitation of a child. See K.S.A. 21-3516, as amended.
- III. All patrons are prohibited from sending electronic mail, instant messages, or chat room messages that violate any local, state or federal laws. Violators of this prohibition are subject to the consequences described above. Because of limited staff and technical resources, chat, email, and commercial transactions are not a service priority. Library staff will not provide assistance with those activities.
 - IV. Patrons are responsible for any careless and/or abusive treatment of computer hardware and software. Misuse of computer equipment and Internet access may result in the consequences described above. Misuse includes, but is not limited to:
 1. Activities causing damage to library computer equipment, software programs, and data.
 2. Activities deemed unlawful according to local, state and federal law.
 3. Unauthorized access to secure data, including so-called "hacking." Violations will be immediately reported to appropriate law enforcement officials.
 - V. Violation of individual privacy rights, including unauthorized disclosure, use and dissemination of personal information regarding minors is prohibited. Persons violating this prohibition are subject to the consequences described in section II above. Library staff will not disclose library customers' use of the library with respect to information sought or received, including Internet use, except pursuant to a valid court order or subpoena authorized under federal, state or local law.
 - VI. Subject to staff supervision, technology protection measures may be disabled only for bona fide research or other lawful purpose for patrons that are 18 years of age or older.

- VII. The library will comply with federal legal requirements for technology protection measures (filtering software). This technology is not reliable and the library cannot be held responsible for prohibited information that may be displayed or for useful information that may be blocked.
- VIII. "Unauthorized disclosure, use and dissemination of personal information regarding minors are prohibited." [Minors may not send personal information to unsecured sites.]

COMPLAINTS

Patrons who encounter web sites which they believe should be blocked but which are not, or who are prevented from accessing web sites which they believe should not be blocked may submit a complaint. This should be given in writing to the Library Director and include the URL of the site in question and whether the request is to block or unblock it. Staff shall examine the site and determine whether it should be blocked or unblocked. If the technology protection measure being used is a regional service, the information and recommendation shall be forwarded to the appropriate regional staff.

Complaints about enforcement of this policy or observed patron behavior which violate this policy shall also be submitted in writing to the Library Director, providing as much detail as possible.

The library shall inform patrons of the provisions of this policy, including the standards used and procedures for complaint, by making the policy available on the library's web site and in print at the circulation desk.

WIRELESS NETWORK & USE OF PERSONAL DEVICES POLICY

Richmond Public Library staff is not able to provide technical support for the wireless network. They will, however, try to assist patrons with training and use of software.

Wireless users should be aware of inherent security issues that exist in a wireless environment. A personal device on the wireless network will be open to possible unauthorized access from other parties on the Internet. It is recommended that drive sharing be turned off while using the wireless network. As with all Internet transactions, it is not recommended that users submit secure information [such as credit card numbers].

Patrons using personal devices inside the library, on the library's network must abide by all state and federal laws pertaining to the libraries own computers, including but not limited to:

- Accessing or exhibiting inappropriate matter, including obscene matter, matter harmful to minors, or materials containing sexual exploitation of children.
- Hacking, spamming, or otherwise attempting to gain access to secure data or servers;
- Illegal activities.
- Also must abide by all Richmond Public Library computer and internet policies.

The wireless network access point may be turned on or off outside the library's normal operating hours at the Library Director's discretion.

Failure to comply with these rules will result in immediate termination of use of the library's network, and /or termination of library privileges. Violations may be reported to law enforcement authorities if deemed necessary.

Effective Policy Date: June 22, 2017

APPENDIX A

LIBRARY BILL OF RIGHTS

The American Library Association affirms that all libraries are forums for information and ideas, and that the following basic policies should guide their services.

- I. Books and other library resources should be provided for the interest, information, and enlightenment of all people of the community the library serves. Materials should not be excluded because of the origin, background, or views of those contributing to their creation.
- II. Libraries should provide materials and information presenting all points of view on current and historical issues. Materials should not be proscribed or removed because of partisan or doctrinal disapproval.
- III. Libraries should challenge censorship in the fulfillment of their responsibility to provide information and enlightenment.
- IV. Libraries should cooperate with all persons and groups concerned with resisting abridgment of free expression and free access to ideas.
- V. A person's right to use a library should not be denied or abridged because of origin, age, background, or views.
- VI. Libraries which make exhibit spaces and meeting rooms available to the public they serve should make such facilities available on an equitable basis, regardless of the beliefs or affiliations of individuals or groups requesting their use.

Adopted June 19, 1939. Amended October 14, 1944; June 18, 1948; February 2, 1961; June 27, 1967; and January 23, 1980; inclusion of "age" reaffirmed January 13, 1996, by the ALA Council.

APPENDIX B

THE FREEDOM TO READ

The freedom to read is essential to democracy. It is continuously under attack. Private groups and public authorities in various parts of the country are working to remove or limit access to reading materials, to censor content in schools, to label “controversial” views, to distribute lists of “objectionable” books or authors, and to purge libraries. These actions apparently rise from a view that our national tradition of free expression is no longer valid; that censorship and suppression are needed to counter threats to safety or national security, as well as to avoid the subversion of politics and the corruption of morals. We, as individuals devoted to reading and as librarians and publishers responsible for disseminating ideas, wish to assert the public interest in the preservation of the freedom to read.

Most attempts at suppression rest on a denial of the fundamental premise of democracy; that the ordinary individual, by exercising critical judgment, will select the good and reject the bad. We trust Americans to recognize propaganda and misinformation, and to make their own decisions about what they read and believe. We do not believe they are prepared to sacrifice their heritage of a free press in order to be “protected” against what others think may be bad for them. We believe they still favor free enterprise in ideas and expression.

These efforts at suppression are related to a larger pattern of pressures being brought against education, the press, art and images, films, broadcast media, and the Internet. The problem is not only one of actual censorship. The shadow of fear cast by these pressures leads, we suspect, to an even larger voluntary curtailment of expression by those who seek to avoid controversy or unwelcome scrutiny by government officials.

Such pressure toward conformity is perhaps natural to a time of accelerated change. And yet suppression is never more dangerous than in such a time of social tension. Freedom has given the United States the elasticity to endure strain. Freedom keeps open the path of novel and creative solutions, and enables change to come by choice. Every silencing of a heresy, every enforcement of an orthodoxy, diminishes the toughness and resilience of our society and leaves it the less able to deal with controversy and difference.

Now as always in our history, reading is among our greatest freedoms. The freedom to read and write is almost the only means for making generally available ideas or manners of expression that can initially command only a small audience. The written word is the natural medium for the new idea and the untried voice from which come the original contributions to social growth. It is essential to the extended discussion that serious thought requires, and to the accumulation of knowledge and ideas into organized collections.

We believe that free communication is essential to the preservation of a free society and a creative culture. We believe that these pressures toward conformity present the danger of limiting the range and variety of inquiry and expression on which our democracy and our culture depend. We believe that every American community must jealously guard the freedom to publish and to circulate, in order to preserve its own freedom to read. We believe that publishers and librarians have a profound responsibility to give validity to that freedom to read by making it possible for the readers to choose freely from a variety of offerings. The freedom to read is guaranteed by the Constitution. Those with faith in free people will stand firm on these constitutional guarantees of essential rights and will exercise the responsibilities that accompany these rights.

We therefore affirm these propositions:

- I. It is in the public interest for publishers and librarians to make available the widest diversity of views and expressions, including those that are unorthodox, unpopular, or considered dangerous by the majority.

Creative thought is by definition new, and what is new is different. The bearer of every new thought is a rebel until that idea is refined and tested. Totalitarian systems attempt to maintain themselves in power by the ruthless suppression of any concept that challenges the established orthodoxy. The power to a democratic system to adapt to change is vastly strengthened by the freedom of its citizens to choose widely from among conflicting opinions offered freely to them. To stifle every nonconformist idea at birth would make the end of the democratic process. Furthermore, only through the constant activity of weighing and selecting can the democratic mind attain the strength demanded by times like these. We need to know not only what we believe but why we believe it.

- II. Publishers, librarians, and booksellers do not need to endorse every idea or presentation they make available. It would conflict with the public interest for them to establish their own political, moral, or aesthetic views as a standard for determining what should be published or circulated.

Publishers and librarians serve the educational process by helping to make available knowledge and ideas required for the growth of the mind and the increase of learning. They do not foster education by imposing as mentors the patterns of their own thought. The people should have the freedom to read and consider a broader range of ideas than those that may be held by any single librarian or publisher or government or church. It is wrong that what one can read should be confined to what another thinks proper.

- III. It is contrary to the public interest for publishers or librarians to bar access to writings on the basis of the personal history or political affiliations of the author.

No art or literature can flourish if it is to be measured by the political views or private lives of its creators. No society of free people can flourish that draws up lists of writers to whom it will not listen, whatever they may have to say.

- IV. There is no place in our society for efforts to coerce the taste of others, to confine adults to the reading matter deemed suitable for adolescents, or to inhibit the efforts of writers to achieve artistic expression.

To some, much of modern expression is shocking. But is not much of life itself shocking? We cut off literature at the source if we prevent writers from dealing with the stuff of life. Parents and teachers have a responsibility to prepare the young to meet the diversity of experiences in life to which they will be exposed, as they have a responsibility to help them learn to think critically for themselves. These are affirmative responsibilities, not to be discharged simply by preventing them from reading works for which they are not yet prepared. In these matters values differ, and values cannot be legislated; nor can machinery be devised that will suit the demands of one groups without limiting the freedom of others.

- V. It is not in the public interest to force a reader to accept the prejudgment of a label characterizing any expression or its author as subversive or dangerous.

The ideal of labeling presupposes the existence of individual or groups with wisdom to determine by authority what is good or bad for others. It presupposes that individuals must be directed to making up their minds about the ideas they examine. But Americans do not need others to do their thinking for them.

- VI. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians, as guardians of the people's freedom to read, to contest encroachments upon that freedom by individuals or groups seeking to impose their own standards or tastes upon the community at large; and by the government whenever it seeks to reduce or deny public access to public information.

It is inevitable in the give and take of the democratic process that the political, the moral, or the aesthetic concepts of an individual or group will occasionally collide with those of another individual or group. In a free society individuals are free to determine for themselves what they wish to read and each group is free to determine what it will recommend to its freely associated members. But no group has the right to take the law into its own hands, and to impose its own concept of politics or morality upon other members of a democratic society. Freedom is no freedom if it is accorded only to the accepted and the inoffensive. Further, democratic societies are more safe, free, and creative when the free flow of public information is not restricted by governmental prerogative or self-censorship.

- VII. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians to give full meaning to the freedom to read by providing books that enrich the quality and diversity of thought and expression. By the exercise of this affirmative responsibility, they can demonstrate that the answer to a "bad" book is a good one, the answer to a "bad" idea is a good one.

The freedom to read is of little consequence when the reader cannot obtain matter fit for that reader's purpose. What is needed is not only the absence of restraint, but the positive provision of opportunity for the people to read the best that has been thought and said. Books are the major channel by which the intellectual inheritance is handed down, and the principal means of its testing and growth. The defense of the freedom to read requires of all publishers and librarians the utmost of their faculties, and deserves of all Americans the fullest of their support.

We state these propositions neither lightly nor as easy generalizations. We here stake out a lofty claim for the value of the written word. We do so because we believe that it is possessed of enormous variety and usefulness, worthy of cherishing and keeping free. We realize that the application of these propositions may mean the dissemination of ideas and manners of expression that are repugnant to many persons. We do not state these propositions in the comfortable belief that what people read is unimportant. We believe rather that what people read is deeply important; that ideas can be dangerous; but that the suppression of ideas is fatal to a democratic society. Freedom itself is a dangerous way of life, but it is ours.

APPENDIX C

RICHMOND PUBLIC LIBRARY ADA PLAN

The Richmond Public Library embraces the primary goal of the American Disabilities Act [ADA] of 1990 to eliminate discrimination against people with disabilities.

Section 1: DISCRIMINATION ON THE BASIS OF DISABILITY PROHIBITED

No qualified person with a disability] as defined in the ADA] shall be excluded from participation or denied the benefits of the Richmond Public Library.

Section II: PROVISION OF AIDS, BENEFITS AND SERVICES

- I. The library shall provide an individual with disabilities an opportunity to participate in and benefit from programs or services equal to that afforded by others.
- II. Services provided to individuals with disabilities shall be as effective as those provided in the most integrated setting appropriate.
- III. Organizations shall use eligibility criteria and methods of administration that do not have the effect of discriminating on the basis of disability.
- IV. Organization shall make reasonable modifications to policies and practices where necessary to avoid discrimination on the basis of disability unless an organization can demonstrate that making modifications would fundamentally alter the nature of the services provided.
- V. Organizations may not place a surcharge on people with disabilities to cover the measures required to provide those individuals with nondiscriminatory treatment, such as the provision of auxiliary aids or program accessibility.

Section III: PROGRAM ACCESSIBILITY

The standard of evaluation under Title II of the ADA is program accessibility. Services, programs and activities must be made accessible to the maximum extent possible, but this does not mean that every part of every facility must be architecturally accessible to and usable by individuals with disabilities.

- A. The Richmond City Library is not required to make structural changes in existing facilities where other methods are as effective in achieving program accessibility under Title II.
- B. Methods of achieving program access may include: redesign of equipment, assignment of aides to beneficiaries, home visits.
- C. Modifications of policies, practices, and procedures necessary to achieve program accessibility will be implemented as soon as possible.
- D. All new construction and alteration of existing facilities must comply with the requirements of the ADA.

Section IV: COMMUNICATION

The Richmond Public Library will take appropriate steps to ensure that communication with applicants, participants, and members of the public with disabilities are as effective as those with others.

- A. The Richmond Public Library, with advance notice will make every effort to provide services where necessary to an individual with a disability an equal opportunity to participate in or benefit from the service, program, or activity being offered.
- B. The Richmond Public Library will provide signs at inaccessible entrances directing users to an accessible entrance.

Section V: NOTES REGARDING OTHER ADA REGULATIONS

The Richmond Public Library receives tax money; therefore, it is subject to Title II of the ADA regulating nondiscrimination on the basis of disability in state and local government services. [29 CFR Part 35] The Richmond Public Library may also be subject to other ADA laws. To the extent that it is an employer or provides public accommodations and services or commercial facilities.

- A. Title I regulates equal employment opportunities for individuals with disabilities. Title I is enforced by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.
- B. Title II regulates nondiscrimination on the basis of disability in public accommodations. Title II is enforced by the U.S. Department of Justice. The requirement for existing facilities under Title III is the removal of architectural barriers where removable is readily achievable, i.e., accomplished without much difficulty or expense.

APPENDIX D

Free Access to Libraries for Minors

An Interpretation of the Library Bill of Rights

Library policies and procedures which effectively deny minors equal access to all library resources available to other users violate the Library Bill of Rights. The American Library Association opposes all attempts to restrict access to library services, materials, and facilities based on the age of library users.

Article V of the Library Bill of Rights states, “A person’s right to use a library should not be denied or abridged because of origin, age, background, or views.” The “right to use a library” includes free access to, and unrestricted use of, all the services, materials, and facilities the library has to offer. Every restriction on access to, and use of, library resources, based solely on the chronological age, educational level, literacy skills, or legal emancipation of users violates Article V.

Libraries are charged with the mission of providing services and developing resources to meet the diverse information needs and interests of the communities they serve. Services, materials, and facilities that fulfill the needs and interests of library users at different stages in their personal development are a necessary part of library resources. The needs and interests of each library user, and resources appropriate to meet those needs and interests, must be determined on an individual basis. Librarians cannot predict what resources will best fulfill the needs and interests of any individual user based on a single criterion such as chronological age, educational level, literacy skills, or legal emancipation. Equitable access to all library resources and services shall not be abridged through restrictive scheduling or use policies.

Libraries should not limit the selection and development of library resources simply because minors will have access to them. Institutional self-censorship diminishes the credibility of the library in the community, and restricts access for all library users.

Children and young adults unquestionably possess First Amendment rights, including the right to receive information through the library in print, nonprint, or digital format. Constitutionally protected speech cannot be suppressed solely to protect children or young adults from ideas or images a legislative body believes to be unsuitable for them.¹ Librarians and library governing bodies should not resort to age restrictions in an effort to avoid actual or anticipated objections, because only a court of law can determine whether material is not constitutionally protected.

The mission, goals, and objectives of libraries cannot authorize librarians or library governing bodies to assume, abrogate, or overrule the rights and responsibilities of parents and guardians. As Libraries: An American Value states, “We affirm the responsibility and the right of all parents and guardians to guide their own children’s use of the library and its resources and services.” Librarians and library governing bodies cannot assume the role of parents or the functions of parental authority in the private relationship between parent and child. Librarians and governing bodies should maintain that only parents and guardians have the right and the responsibility to determine their children’s – and only their children’s – access to library resources. Parents and guardians who do not want their children to have access to specific library services, materials, or facilities should so advise their children.

Lack of access to information can be harmful to minors. Librarians and library governing bodies have a public and professional obligation to ensure that all members of the community they serve have free, equal, and equitable access to the entire range of library resources regardless of content, approach, format, or amount of detail. This principle of library service applies equally to all users, minors as well as adults. Librarians and library governing bodies must uphold this principle in order to provide adequate and effective service to minors.

See Erznoznik V. City of Jacksonville, 422 U.S. 205 (1975) “Speech that is neither obscene as to youths nor subject to some other legitimate proscription cannot be suppressed solely to protect the young from ideas or images that a legislative body thinks unsuitable for them. In most circumstances, the values protected by the First Amendment are no less applicable when government seeks to control the flow of information to minors.” See also Tinker v. Des Moines School Dist., 393 U.S. 503 (1969); West Virginia Bd. Of Ed. V. Barnette, 319 U.S. 624 (1943); AAMA v. Kendrick, 244 F.3d 572 (7th Cir. 2001).

APPENDIX E

Freedom to View Statement

The Freedom to View, along with the freedom to speak, to hear, and to read, is protected by the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. In a free society, there is no place for censorship of any medium of expression. Therefore, these principles are affirmed:

1. To provide the broadest access to film, video, and other audiovisual materials because they are a means for the communication of ideas. Liberty of circulation is essential to insure the constitutional guarantees of freedom of expression.
2. To protect the confidentiality of all individuals and institutions using film, video, and other audiovisual materials.
3. To provide film, video, and other audiovisual materials which represent a diversity of views and expression. Selection of a work does not constitute or imply agreement with or approval of the content.
4. To provide a diversity of viewpoints without the constraint of labeling or prejudging film, video, or other audiovisual materials on the basis of the moral, religious, or political beliefs of the producer or filmmaker or on the basis of controversial content.
5. To contest vigorously, by all lawful means, every encroachment upon the public's freedom to view.

This statement was originally drafted by the Freedom to View Committee of the American Film and Video Association (formerly the Educational Film Library Association) and was adopted by the AFVA Board of Directors in February 1979. This statement was updated and approved by the AFVA Board of Directors in 1989.

Endorsed by the ALA Council January 10, 1990.

APPENDIX F

Access for Children and Young Adults to Nonprint Materials

An Interpretation of the Library Bill of Rights

Library collections of nonprint materials raise a number of intellectual freedom issues, especially regarding minors. Article V of the Library Bill of Rights states, “A person’s right to use a library should not be denied or abridged because of origin, age, background, or views.”

The American Library Association’s principles protect minors’ access to sound, images, data, games, software, and other content in all formats such as tapes, CDs, DVDs, music CDs, computer games, software, databases, and other emerging technologies. ALA’s Free Access to Libraries for Minors: An Interpretation of the Library Bill of Rights states:

. . . The “right to use a library” includes free access to, and unrestricted use of, all the services, materials, and facilities the library has to offer. Every restriction on access to, and use of, library resources, based solely on the chronological age, educational level, literacy skills, or legal emancipation of users violates Article V.

. . . [P]arents – and only parents – have the right and responsibility to restrict access of their children – and only their children – to library resources. Parents who do not want their children to have access to certain library services, materials, or facilities should so advise their children. Librarians and library governing bodies cannot assume the role of parents or the functions of parental authority in the private relationship between parent and child.

Lack of access to information can be harmful to minors. Librarians and library governing bodies have a public and professional obligation to ensure that all members of the community they serve have free, equal, and equitable access to the entire range of library resources regardless of content, approach, format, or amount of detail. This principle of library service applies equally to all users, minors as well as adults. Librarians and library governing bodies must uphold this principle in order to provide adequate and effective service to minors.

Policies that set minimum age limits for access to any nonprint materials or information technology, with or without parental permission, abridge library use for minors. Age limits based on the cost of the materials are also unacceptable. Librarians, when dealing with minors, should apply the same standards to circulation of nonprint materials as are applied to books and other print materials except when directly and specifically prohibited by law.

Recognizing that librarians cannot act in loco parentis, ALA acknowledges and supports the exercise by parents of their responsibility to guide their own children's reading and viewing. Libraries should provide published reviews and/or reference works that contain information about the content, subject matter, and recommended audiences for nonprint materials. These resources will assist parents in guiding their children without implicating the library in censorship.

In some cases, commercial content ratings, such as the Motion Picture Association of America (MPAA) movie ratings, might appear on the packaging or promotional materials provided by producers or distributors. However, marking out or removing this information from materials or packaging constitutes expurgation or censorship.

MPAA movie ratings, Entertainment Software Rating Board (ESRB) game ratings, and other rating services are private advisory codes and have no legal standing (Expurgation of Library Materials). For the library to add ratings to nonprint materials if they are not already there is unacceptable. It is also unacceptable to post a list of such ratings with a collection or to use them in circulation policies or other procedures. These uses constitute labeling, "an attempt to prejudice attitudes" (Labels and Rating Systems), and are forms of censorship. The application of locally generated ratings schemes intended to provide content warnings to library users is also inconsistent with the Library Bill of Rights.

The interests of young people, like those of adults, are not limited by subject, theme, or level of sophistication. Librarians have a responsibility to ensure young people's access to materials and services that reflect diversity of content and format sufficient to meet their needs.

Adopted June 28, 1989. Amended June 30, 2004, by the ALA Council.

APPENDIX G

Code of Ethics of the American Library Association

As members of the American Library Association, we recognize the importance of codifying and making known to the profession and to the general public the ethical principles that guide the work of librarians, other professionals providing information services, library trustees and library staffs.

Ethical dilemmas occur when values are in conflict. The American Library Association Code of Ethics states the values to which we are committed, and embodies the ethical responsibilities of the profession in this changing information environment.

We significantly influence or control the selection, organization, preservation, and dissemination of information. In a political system grounded in an informed citizenry, we are members of a profession explicitly committed to intellectual freedom and the freedom of access to information. We have a special obligation to ensure the free flow of information and ideas to present and future generations.

The principles of this Code are expressed in broad statements to guide ethical decision making. These statements provide a framework; they cannot and do not dictate conduct to cover particular situations.

- I. We provide the highest level of service to all library users through appropriate and usefully organized resources; equitable service policies; equitable access; and accurate, unbiased, and courteous responses to all requests.
- II. We uphold the principles of intellectual freedom and resist all efforts to censor library resources.
- III. We protect each library user's right to privacy and confidentiality with respect to information sought or received and resources consulted, borrowed, acquired, or transmitted.

- IV. We respect intellectual property rights and advocate balance between the interests of information users and rights holders.
- V. We treat co-workers and other colleagues with respect, fairness, and good faith, and advocate conditions of employment that safeguard the rights and welfare of all employees of our institutions.
- VI. We do not advance private interests at the expense of library users, colleagues, or our employing institutions.
- VII. We distinguish between our personal convictions and professional duties and do not allow our personal beliefs to interfere with fair representation of the aims of our institutions or the provision of access to their information resources.
- VIII. We strive for excellence in the profession by maintaining and enhancing our own knowledge and skills, by encouraging the professional development of coworkers, and by fostering the aspirations of potential members of the profession.

APPENDIX I

Library History

In the early 1930s the Richmond Library was established and housed in the J.A. Hutchinson General Store as a reading library. L. P. Jones in 1938 suggested to a group of people, the library be moved to a shelf in his newspaper office. This was accomplished and each person at the meeting donated one book. Mr. Jones served as the town librarian as well as editor of the, Richmond Enterprise. Mrs. Lon Mishler, Mrs. George Deitrich, Mrs. Alfred Sigler, and Mrs. Lee Perkins were the first board Members. Mr. Jones published in his paper that the city of Richmond now had a legal library.

In 1940 the library had to be moved because Mr. Jones was closing the doors to the, Richmond Enterprise. At this time Clive Bastain offered the walls of his barbershop to the board members and also offered to serve as librarian. He not only read every book in the library but also would keep the Books in order by alphabet but also cataloged them. As people would come in for a haircut he would suggest certain books, as he knew everyone and their likes and dislikes. He served not only the local people but also surrounding communities as well as the high school and grade school. This continued until his death, but still remained in the building he had owned through six Barbers who all became part time librarian

The library joined the Northeast Kansas Library System [NEKLS] in 1968. This has allowed us to use interlibrary loan, rotating videos, rotating large print books, and audio books.

In 1969 with assistance of the NEKLS the library moved into a newly renovated building Across from the barbershop. This feat was accomplished with children's' little red wagons and volunteer help. Members of the library board at this time were, Mrs. Martha Chambers, Mrs. J.R. Harnden, Mrs. Alfred Nilges, and Mrs. Charles Schafer. Mrs. Art Rossman. Mrs. Dale Gillouby and Mr. H Marvin Stevens. An open house for the new facility was held 6, June 1970.

- Mrs. Marguerite Roberts became the first paid part time librarian in 1954 until 1972.

In Sept. 1978 the Franklin County Commissioners agreed to give the library $2000 in revenue Sharing funds for the purchase of the building housing the Richmond Public Library today. In February 1988 the restroom was added to the library.

Through the years the purpose of the library has been to supply the citizens of Richmond and the surrounding area with reading materials for pleasure and information.

The need for space through the years, the growth of the city, and the need for special collections of books, as well as a computer and video shelves, caused the library to look into expansion. In 1999 the City of Richmond purchased the old café building for a New City Hall and then gave the library a long-term lease on the kitchen area. This space almost doubled the library in size.

The undertaking of the new space for the library was quite a big deal. We had Roy Bird, assistant state librarian visit with the trustees and advise them about the project. Then N.E.K.L. provided the services of Hans Fischer, an architect to draw up plans for the project. Keith McMahon then took charge of the complete refurbishing of the area. The floor had to be cleaned, then the new carpet laid, in both rooms, walls was straightened, a new lowered ceiling was put in. Keith and his sons volunteered all this work. The walls were then painted by some of the then members of the Board of Trustees.

Once the room was refinished it was time for the shelving. Bob Cooper assisted by Gene Vining made shelves. R.L. Harris and some of the members of the Board of Trustees then sanded the shelves. The trustee's also then stained the shelves. The lumber for the shelves was purchased from our own lumberyard here in Richmond, Thompson Lumber. Bob Cooper then attached the shelves to the wall.

Many people in the community gave monetary gifts to provide materials for the expansion. Our former residents, Alumni of the Richmond High School, spread the word.

We continue to receive many gifts of books and videos from the community. These gifts are always welcome and appreciated.

As of January 2002 we own over 3,000 books, more than 200 videos and over 40 audio books and several magazines. In January we also the time we submitted an application for the Gates Grant to get a new computer for the library. In July of 2002 the library received a content server, computer and laser printer from the Gates Grant program.

In 2003 the library added DVDs to their collection.

In February 2004 the library added more shelving. The Friends of the Richmond Public Library also bought new carpet for the original half of the library. The library also now has a small refrigerator and microwave for librarians to use.

In June of 2004 the library purchased a new Dell computer

In August of 2004 the library received music CD's from a nationwide lawsuit. All libraries were recipients of these CD's. As a result, the library now has a CD collection of over 30 music CD's.

January Of 2005 the library purchased a second dell computer. We have put this on the adult side of the library.

In 2007 the front door to the library was replace with a door that opens easier and a handicap ramp and rail was put in out front

July 2008 the library purchased a new paperback book rack to try and give the library more room. A couple new [or used] shelves were also added. The library was also given two metal book racks.

This summer the library has partnered with R.A.C.O. [Richmond Area Civic Organization] to run the food stand during the fair. This will count as one of the libraries fundraisers, with plans to co-run the food stand every fair that it is feasible.

April 2009 the library added a small laptop computer to the library. This computer is for adults only to use. Also this year Ken Manwarren donated an older laptop to the library.

April of 2010 someone stole the older laptop computer from the library. It was never found. May of 2010 the library purchased a new Eeebox computer and NEKLS refurbished one of the older Dell computers for us. In 2010 the library added some more racks, one for DVD's, one for VHS and the other went for books. We also added a magazine rack. All of these were free from other libraries. In June the library received some unexpected money for the State Library of Kansas and the board decided to use the money on some much needed upgrading at the library. In October – December 2010 the library upgraded the old fuse box with a new breaker box; we also changed the lighting in the older room of the library. The old big fluorescent lights were replaced with 6 new smaller shop type lights. A power pole for the computers was added so that all the computers could be put in one room side by side.

A computer station table was also built by Rick Weber and placed in the library in May of 2011. The new table will hold up to 6 computers. May 2011 we received some unexpected money from the Friends of Johnson County Library. This money will be used to help the library with supplies or much needed repairs. The library started some major weeding of books and other library materials in 2011. This weeding process is the first step in the library getting automated.

In 2011 the Friends of the Library received a grant to help buy new windows for the front of the library. In October 2011 the windows arrived and Tony Wittman and Rick Weber put them in. The board also decided to replace some of the old paneling while the windows were being put in, and since we are putting in new paneling by the windows it was also decided to put in a book drop slot. The inside slot was done in 2011 and hopefully in the spring of 2012 the outside of the book drop will be done and functioning. Donna Thompson painted the wood on the outside of the library for us.

In February 2012 the Richmond Public Library was one of the first in our area to have an eReader workshop. The workshop came about because the price of eReaders is coming down and more patrons are getting them and needed help using them.

The End of March and beginning of April 2012 Rick Weber and Ken Manwarren volunteered the time to update our bathroom. We put in new linoleum, redid the walls and fixed some old water lines. Some of the materials needed for the bathroom were donated by Donna Thompson, Rick Weber and Barbara Lane.

In April 2012 the library went “Live” and became part of the library automation system known as Next. This library now has barcodes on all their items and patrons received new scannable cards to use when checking items out of the library. At the end of 2012 the library had catalogued 4,088 books, 50 audio books, and 581 movies.

In 2013 the library is Officially 75 years old [1938 – 2013].

June 2013 Rick Weber and Jacob Akes put a roof area over the back doors of the library. The library had been having trouble with the back room [where the furnace is] flooding when it rained. The men worked for two days and night and we now have a nice little area with a roof over it. Rick and Jake donated most of the supplies and all of the labor; the Richmond Museum donated the tin for the roof.

August 2013 the library had Dale Katzberg put an outside light in the back of the library. Dale is an electrician who lives in Richmond and has done various jobs for the city, the fair board and the library.

September 2013 the library replaced [with some help from NEKLS] one of the old Dell computers with a new Asus all-in-one computer.

November 9, 2013 was the official date for the 75th Anniversary “Open House”. We celebrated with cake and balloons and some prize give-a-ways. Any past librarian that could be located was sent an invitation to the open house. Each librarian [past and present] who attended the open house was given an anniversary coffee mug.

In April of 2014 Rick Weber fixed the library front sidewalk. The front walk was crumbling pretty badly and some of the cracks were getting big. Rick took out all the old concrete from the cracks and filled them with new. We hope this will last a few years.

In April 2014 the library also replaced two more computers. Computers need to be replaced about every three years [if possible]. The library had computers that were over 10 years old and in need of being replaced. With the help of some grants they were able to replace the two oldest ones. The new computers are Dells with a windows 7 operating system.

June 2014 the Friends of the Library bought “Library” highways signs. The library board working with City Hall found a place to put them.

March 2015 board member Ken Manwarren donated the money to buy two new computers in memory of his father Keith Otto Manwarren to the library. The computers are Lenovo all-in-ones with touch screen and have a windows 8 operating system.

In May of 2015 the library received a $1,500 grant Wal-mart Distribution Center to purchase a new computer and new copy machine. The computer and copy machine were put in the library in early June 2015, the new computer is a Lenovo all-in-one touch screen just like the two replaced in March. In November the library also bought 4 new chairs for the library computers and 2 new staff computer chairs. Also in June the Friends of the Library purchased a Sno Cone machine for the library. It gets used a lot during the Richmond Free Fair.

June 2016 we finally got the library signs put up on the highway. Board member Ken Manwarren did a wonderful job putting them up for us.

July 2016 the library received $2,000.00 grant from Wal-Mart Distribution Center and $500.00 from The Ottawa Wal-Mart store and a generous donation in honor of Nadine Peine from some of her grandchildren. The plan is to replace the floor covering in the east room of the library and to finish paneling the east room walls. In October new carpet was purchased from Bauman's in Garnett and installed by them. Also in October Rick Weber put new paneling on the walls and added some new shelving.

October of 2017 the library is running out of room for the DVD TV Series so the library purchased the wood and Rick Weber build us a new shelf.

April or 2019 the library is still running out of room. Rick Weber put a new [repurposed] shelf in the back room, he also repurposed the old file cabinet to hold totes for storage. Connie and Goldie donated to totes. Rick then added another shelf in the west room on top of the existing shelves. Rick donated the wood and labor for the new shelf.
