Confidentiality of Library Records

Because the library must maintain trust with members of the public, the Board of Trustees of the Nortonville Public Library shall make every reasonable and responsible effort to see that information about the patron and the individual choices remain confidential. For people to make full and effective use of library resources, they must feel unconstrained by the possibility of others being aware of the books they read, the materials they use or the questions they ask.

Therefore the Board of Trustees of the Nortonville Public Library has adopted the following guidelines concerning the disclosure of information about library patrons:

No information regarding or including:

1. A patron’s name (or whether an individual is a registered borrower or has been a patron).
2. A patron’s address
3. A patron’s telephone number
4. The library’s circulation records and their contents
5. The library’s borrower records and their contents

- The library director, upon initial request from a parent/guardian of a patron under 16 years of age regarding past due items, may release the number of items checked out of circulation by that patron. If the past due issue is not resolved in 15 days, the library director may release the titles of past due items of a patron under the age of 16 to the parent/guardian to ensure that items are returned to the Nortonville Public Library.

6. The number or character of questions asked by patrons
7. The frequency or content of a patron’s visits to the library or any other information supplied to the library (or gathered by it) shall be given, made available or disclosed to any individual, corporation, institution or government agency without a valid process, order or subpoena, the library shall resist its enforcement until such time as a proper showing of good cause has been made in a court of competent jurisdiction.
If a court order or subpoena is presented, the director will release information to law enforcement personnel. At that time the director will contact NEKLS, the library board chairperson, and the city attorney, if allowed by law.

Police will be notified in the case of violations of federal or state laws and the records will be turned over to them under those circumstances. User privileges will be terminated for any individual found to be in violation of those laws.

All library employees (and those volunteers who work in its behalf) are hereby instructed to comply with these guidelines or be subject to termination or resignation of current position as determined by the board. The Board of Trustees recognizes that it is only through continued public confidence in knowing these guidelines are being upheld that the public can maintain its confidence in the library.

It is this confidence that is vital to the library’s role in the community and community’s right to know.

Tobacco Policy

To create a healthy and clean environment for both the public and library employees, the use of tobacco in any form is strictly prohibited. This applies to the interior and exterior of the library facilities.

The library prohibits smoking and carrying of lighted smoking materials. Also prohibited is the use of any tobacco materials, such as chewing tobacco or snuff.

All staff will be asked to advise smokers and tobacco users of the library’s policy. Persons failing to refrain from use of materials after being advised of library policy will be asked to leave the library for the remainder of the business day. Enforcement of this provision should be done by the staff member in charge of the library at the time.

Habitual offenders may be expelled from the library for an extended period. Length of expulsion or suspension beyond the business day will be determined by the library director.
Materials Selection Policy

To meet the needs of the patrons of the Nortonville Public Library, the library attempts to provide a general collection of reliable materials. Selection is based on the particular needs and interests of the community.

The library, however, does not feel obligated to have materials in order to answer every question. In some cases, the material needed is very obscure or specialized; the patron may be served best by referral to another institution or through interlibrary loan.

Responsibility for book selection, as for all library activities, rest with the Librarian/Director. Suggestions from readers are welcome and are given serious consideration.

Reviews in professional periodicals are a primary source for materials selection. Standard bibliographies, booklists by recognized authorities and the advice of experts in specific subject areas are used.

All requests from patrons for specific titles or subjects will be considered. If there is enough demand or interest in a title or subject, an item with unfavorable reviews may be purchased, unless it is completely without literary merit or social value, or the subject in question is already covered by better materials. Specialized materials of limited community interest will not ordinarily be purchased. Referral to other library collections and interlibrary loan will be used to supply patrons with these materials.

Children’s Material

In selecting books for children, the library’s objective is to make available a collection that satisfies the informational, recreational and cultural reading needs of children from preschool through Middle School. Books are included which serve children of all abilities and reading levels. Criteria for book selection include literary and artistic worth, accuracy, suitability of content and vocabulary to age of the readers, the contribution of the book to the balance of the total collection and price.
DVDs/Video Games

DVDs are purchased by the library for the primary purpose of home entertainment. Suggestions from the public are also welcome. The library takes no responsibility for the content of the video collection.
Intellectual Freedom

It is the policy of the Nortonville Public Library to encourage intellectual freedom. Decisions regarding challenged books will be considered very carefully to prevent infringement of this freedom. All printed materials will be considered for purchase without limitation to content on the basis of religion, race, gender or other factors.

Amended 2012
Material Withdrawal Policy

Material withdrawal is an important aspect of collection development. When library materials lose the value for which they were originally selected, they should be withdrawn so that the collection remains vital and useful. The withdrawal of materials is based on the following guidelines.

1. To remove physically worn out or damaged material from the library.
2. To eliminate material containing obsolete information.
3. To consider for withdrawal materials which have not been checked out for several years.

The Librarian/Director will make the final decision regarding the disposition of materials withdrawn from the collection.

Amended 3-26-03
Objections To Materials

The following procedure is to be followed when a patron objects to materials included in the library’s collection.

1. The Librarian/Director will listen to the patron in a concerned manner.
2. The patron is to be offered the “Request for consideration of Library Materials” form. The form is to be filled out in full by the patron and returned to the Librarian/Director. No objections will be considered until this procedure is followed.
3. The Library Board will consider the material in question. The Library Board will respond with a written reply to the patron.

The Library Board and Librarian/Director believe that the right to read is an important part of the intellectual freedom that is basic to democracy and hereby supports the Library Bill of Rights and the Freedom to Read Statement.
Library Bill of Rights

The American Library Association affirms that all libraries are forums for information and ideas, and that the following basic policies should guide their services.

I. Books and other library resources should be provided for the interest, information, and enlightenment of all people of the community the library serves. Materials should not be excluded because of the origin, background, or views of those contributing to their creation.

II. Libraries should provide materials and information presenting all points of view on current and historical issues. Materials should not be proscribed or removed because of partisan or doctrinal disapproval.

III. Libraries should challenge censorship in the fulfillment of their responsibility to provide information and enlightenment.

IV. Libraries should cooperate with all persons and groups concerned with resisting abridgment of free expression and free access to ideas.

V. A person’s right to use a library should not be denied or abridged because of origin, age, background, or views.

VI. Libraries that make exhibit spaces and meeting rooms available to the public they serve should make such facilities available on an equitable basis, regardless of the beliefs or affiliations of individuals or groups requesting their use.

The Freedom to Read Statement

The freedom to read is essential to our democracy. It is continuously under attack. Private groups and public authorities in various parts of the country are working to remove or limit access to reading materials, to censor content in schools, to label "controversial" views, to distribute lists of "objectionable" books or authors, and to purge libraries. These actions apparently rise from a view that our national tradition of free expression is no longer valid; that censorship and suppression are needed to counter threats to safety or national security, as well as to avoid the subversion of politics and the corruption of morals. We, as individuals devoted to reading and as librarians and publishers responsible for disseminating ideas, wish to assert the public interest in the preservation of the freedom to read.

Most attempts at suppression rest on a denial of the fundamental premise of democracy: that the ordinary individual, by exercising critical judgment, will select the good and reject the bad. We trust Americans to recognize propaganda and misinformation, and to make their own decisions about what they read and believe. We do not believe they are prepared to sacrifice their heritage of a free press in order to be "protected" against what others think may be bad for them. We believe they still favor free enterprise in ideas and expression.

These efforts at suppression are related to a larger pattern of pressures being brought against education, the press, art and images, films, broadcast media, and the Internet. The problem is not only one of actual censorship. The shadow of fear cast by these pressures leads, we suspect, to an even larger voluntary curtailment of expression by those who seek to avoid controversy or unwelcome scrutiny by government officials.

Such pressure toward conformity is perhaps natural to a time of accelerated change. And yet suppression is never more dangerous than in such a time of social tension. Freedom has given the United States the elasticity to endure strain. Freedom keeps open the path of novel and creative solutions, and enables change to come by choice. Every silencing of a heresy, every enforcement of an orthodoxy, diminishes the toughness and resilience of our society and leaves it the less able to deal with controversy and difference.

Now as always in our history, reading is among our greatest freedoms. The freedom to read and write is almost the only means for making generally available ideas or manners of expression that can initially command only a small audience. The written word is the natural medium for the new idea and the untried voice from which come the original contributions to social growth. It is essential to the extended discussion that serious thought requires, and to the accumulation of knowledge and ideas into organized collections.

We believe that free communication is essential to the preservation of a free society and a creative culture. We believe that these pressures toward conformity present the danger of limiting the range and variety of inquiry and expression on which our democracy and our culture depend. We believe that every American community must jealously guard the freedom to publish and to circulate, in order to preserve its own freedom to read. We believe that publishers and librarians have a profound responsibility to give validity to that freedom to read by making it possible for the readers to choose freely from a variety of offerings.

The freedom to read is guaranteed by the Constitution. Those with faith in free people will stand firm on these constitutional guarantees of essential rights and will exercise the responsibilities that accompany these rights.

We therefore affirm these propositions:

1. It is in the public interest for publishers and librarians to make available the widest diversity of views and expressions, including those that are unorthodox, unpopular, or considered dangerous by the majority.

Creative thought is by definition new, and what is new is different. The bearer of every new thought is a rebel until that idea is refined and tested. Totalitarian systems attempt to maintain themselves in power by the ruthless suppression of any concept that challenges the established orthodoxy. The power of a democratic system to adapt to change is vastly strengthened by the freedom of its citizens to choose widely from among conflicting opinions offered freely to them. To stifle every nonconformist idea at birth would mark the end of the democratic process. Furthermore, only through the constant activity of weighing and selecting can the democratic mind attain the strength demanded by times like these. We need to know not only what we believe but why we believe it.

2. Publishers, librarians, and booksellers do not need to endorse every idea or presentation they make available. It would conflict with the public interest for them to establish their own political, moral, or aesthetic views as a standard for determining what should be published or circulated.

Publishers and librarians serve the educational process by helping to make available knowledge and ideas required for the growth of the mind and the increase of learning. They do not foster education by imposing as mentors the patterns of their own thought. The people should have the freedom to read and consider a broader range of ideas than those that may be held by any single librarian or publisher or government or church. It is wrong that what one can read should be confined to what another thinks proper.

3. It is contrary to the public interest for publishers or librarians to bar access to writings on the basis of the personal history or political affiliations of the author.

No art or literature can flourish if it is to be measured by the political views or private lives of its creators. No society of free people can flourish that draws up lists of writers to whom it will not listen, whatever they may have to say.
4. There is no place in our society for efforts to coerce the taste of others, to confine adults to the reading matter deemed suitable for adolescents, or to inhibit the efforts of writers to achieve artistic expression.

To some, much of modern expression is shocking. But is not much of life itself shocking? We cut off literature at the source if we prevent writers from dealing with the stuff of life. Parents and teachers have a responsibility to prepare the young to meet the diversity of experiences in life to which they will be exposed, as they have a responsibility to help them learn to think critically for themselves. These are affirmative responsibilities, not to be discharged simply by preventing them from reading works for which they are not yet prepared. In these matters values differ, and values cannot be legislated; nor can machinery be devised that will suit the demands of one group without limiting the freedom of others.

5. It is not in the public interest to force a reader to accept the prejudgment of a label characterizing any expression or its author as subversive or dangerous.

The ideal of labeling presupposes the existence of individuals or groups with wisdom to determine by authority what is good or bad for others. It presupposes that individuals must be directed in making up their minds about the ideas they examine. But Americans do not need others to do their thinking for them.

6. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians, as guardians of the people's freedom to read, to contest encroachments upon that freedom by individuals or groups seeking to impose their own standards or tastes upon the community at large; and by the government whenever it seeks to reduce or deny public access to public information.

It is inevitable in the give and take of the democratic process that the political, the moral, or the aesthetic concepts of an individual or group will occasionally collide with those of another individual or group. In a free society individuals are free to determine for themselves what they wish to read, and each group is free to determine what it will recommend to its freely associated members. But no group has the right to take the law into its own hands, and to impose its own concept of politics or morality upon other members of a democratic society. Freedom is no freedom if it is accorded only to the accepted and the inoffensive. Further, democratic societies are more safe, free, and creative when the free flow of public information is not restricted by governmental prerogative or self-censorship.

7. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians to give full meaning to the freedom to read by providing books that enrich the quality and diversity of thought and expression. By the exercise of this affirmative responsibility, they can demonstrate that the answer to a "bad" book is a good one, the answer to a "bad" idea is a good one.
The freedom to read is of little consequence when the reader cannot obtain matter fit for that reader's purpose. What is needed is not only the absence of restraint, but the positive provision of opportunity for the people to read the best that has been thought and said. Books are the major channel by which the intellectual inheritance is handed down, and the principal means of its testing and growth. The defense of the freedom to read requires of all publishers and librarians the utmost of their faculties, and deserves of all Americans the fullest of their support.

We state these propositions neither lightly nor as easy generalizations. We here stake out a lofty claim for the value of the written word. We do so because we believe that it is possessed of enormous variety and usefulness, worthy of cherishing and keeping free. We realize that the application of these propositions may mean the dissemination of ideas and manners of expression that are repugnant to many persons. We do not state these propositions in the comfortable belief that what people read is unimportant. We believe rather that what people read is deeply important; that ideas can be dangerous; but that the suppression of ideas is fatal to a democratic society. Freedom itself is a dangerous way of life, but it is ours.

The Nortonville Public Library building was built to conform to the Americans With Disabilities Act.

Nortonville Public Library has an established policy of being accommodating to its handicapped patrons. If a patron is unable to reach the library because of physical or mental limitations, the library director will deliver materials to the patron’s home. If the patron is mobile in a vehicle, but unable to leave the vehicle, the library director will deliver materials curbside.

The following policy addresses accessibility.

There is ramped access in the rear of the building. The concrete ramp is travel stable, firm and slip-resistant. The ramp will be kept clear of ice and snow during inclement weather. There are no protruding objects on this ramp. The curb approaching the ramp has a smooth transition. The parking area is paved. A handicap parking sign has been installed.

The ramp is built with a slope of 1:12. The ramp has sturdy 36 inch high railings on both sides. The ramp is 48 inches wide. There is a level landing at the top of the ramp for accessing the entry door.

A handicap parking space is available, with one 13 foot space. Total parking spaces will be less than 25. The access aisle is directly linked to the ramp accessing the rear door (accessible). It is the closest parking space to this entrance. Our building services the police department and they will enforce handicap parking procedure.

Two entrances are available to the building, a front and a rear entrance. The rear entrance is the accessible entrance. There are no stairs to this entrance. The accessible entrance is clearly marked. It can be used independently. The opening is 36 inches wide and there is 22 inches clear wall space on the pull side of the door, next to the handle. The threshold is beveled to 3/8 inch. The mats in the rear entrance have non-skid applications on the bottom to prevent tripping. The door handle is installed at 36 inches. The entry door can be opened without too much force and takes at least 3 seconds to close with the automatic closer.

The size of the building does not require an emergency system, but if lights do fail we have an emergency, battery operated lighting system.

The accessible entrance provides direct access to the main floor with a minimum accessible route of at least 36 inches. There is adequate space for a wheelchair to turn a 5 feet circle.

All doors are 36 inches. On the pull side of the door, next to the handle, there is at least 18 inches of wall space. Doors can be opened with minimal force. Door handles are at 36 inches. Thresholds are beveled to ½ inch.

All aisles and pathways are at least 36 inches wide. Carpeting is low pile, tightly woven and secure along the edges. All obstacles are cane-detectable.

All building signage has raised lettering, as well as Braille lettering. Signs are posted on the latch side of the door, mounted with centerline at 60 inches, raised letters of 1/8 inch with pictogram. Exit signs, above doors, are lighted for high contrast with 8 inch letters.

All controls for lighting, heat and fans are at an accessible height.

Numerous tables are distributed throughout the facility. All tables are 30-32 inches with knee space of at least 30 inches wide.

The only stairway located in the building is not accessible to the public, but it is non slip with continuous rails.

Restrooms are fully accessible and clearly marked on the latch side of the door. The doorways are 36 inches with the door handle height of 36 inches. The doors can be opened easily, with little force. Enough space is provided within the restroom for ease in maneuverability. The toilet seat is 18 inches high. The lavatory has a 30 inch wide by 48 inch deep clear space in front, with a height of 34 inches. There are 30 inches from the lavatory apron to the floor. The faucet can be operated with a closed fist. The soap dispenser can be used with one closed fist. The mirror is mounted at 38 inches.

The Nortonville Public Library is a forum for all points of view and adheres to the principles of intellectual freedom as expressed in the Library Bill of Rights formulated by the American Library Association and adopted by the Library Board. Users must comply with the United States copyright law, United States and Kansas obscenity statutes, and all other applicable laws.

The Internet is a global electronic network that provides access to ideas, information and commentary. The Nortonville Public Library provides public access to the Internet in keeping with its mission as a forum for access to public information.

The library has no control over the information on the Internet and cannot be held responsible for its content. Restriction of a minor’s access to the Internet is the responsibility of the parent or legal guardian. Within the above limitations, the library follows policies and procedures that support maximum safety for minors when accessing the Internet at the library.

The library affirms the rights and responsibilities of the parents and guardians to determine and monitor the children’s use of library materials and resources. Parents and guardians, not the library or its staff, are responsible for the Internet information selected and accessed by their children. Parental permission is required for use of the library Internet computers by children under the age of eighteen. The library is not responsible, except as provided in this policy, for the use of the Internet by children who have obtained parental permission according to the procedures determined by the library.

Using library computer workstations in an inappropriate manner, as defined herein, is prohibited. Members of the library staff are under no obligation to monitor usage and accept no responsibility for investigating the manner in which those workstations are used. When, however, a member of the library staff observes a patron using a workstation in violation of policy, the patron will be deemed to be using the workstation in an unacceptable manner, resulting in any or all of the following consequences:

1. Immediate termination of the Internet session.
2. Additional suspension of computer use or other library privileges.
3. Notification of appropriate law enforcement officials.

Materials on the Internet may be subject to copyright laws. Copyrighted materials may not be copied without permission of the copyright holder unless the proposed use falls within the definition of “fair use.” (United States Code, title 17, Section 107)

Patrons shall not access or exhibit inappropriate matter on library Internet workstations. Inappropriate matter shall include obscene matter, matter harmful to minors, or materials containing sexual exploitation of children, as defined by Kansas Statutes and the Children’s Internet Protection Act. Specifically:

3. Patrons shall not use the library computers in a manner that allows them to possess a computer-generated image that contains or incorporates sexual exploitation of a child. See K.S.A. 21-3516, as amended.

All patrons are prohibited from sending electronic mail, instant messages, or chat room messages that violate any local, state or federal laws. Violators of this prohibition are subject to the consequences described above.

Patrons are responsible for any careless and/or abusive treatment of computer hardware and software. Misuse of computer equipment and Internet access may result in the consequences described above. Misuse includes, but is not limited to:

1. Activities deemed unlawful according to local, state and federal law.
2. Unauthorized access to secure data, including so-called “hacking.” Violations will be immediately reported to appropriate law enforcement officials.

Violation of individual privacy rights, including unauthorized disclosure, use and dissemination of personal information regarding minors is prohibited. Persons violating this prohibition are subject to the consequences described above. Library staff will not disclose library patrons’ use of the library with respect to information sought or received, including Internet use, except pursuant to a valid court order or subpoena authorized under federal, state or local law.

The library will comply with federal legal requirements for technology protection measures (CIPA) by installing filtering software. This technology is not reliable and the library cannot be held responsible for prohibited information that may be displayed or for useful information that may be blocked. Filtering software may be disabled, by staff, at the request of patrons over the age of eighteen.

Printing is allowed on the library computers. The first 5 pages of black printing are free, additional pages are 10 cents. Color printing is available for 35 cents per page, with no free pages.

There is no time limit on computers unless patrons are waiting. If there is a wait, patrons will be informed of a 20-minute limit on their time. All patrons are treated equally regarding computer usage, with no distinction between recreational or educational purposes. Computers are extremely busy after school and waits at this time are common.

Patron should contact library staff immediately if they have any problems using computer equipment or software. Patron should not attempt to fix the problem.

Warning: Although we use a virus-checker on the Internet access computers, this will not completely protect you from the chance of getting a virus. Downloads from the Internet may contain a virus and you need to have virus-checking software on your computer. The Nortonville Public Library is not responsible for damage to a patron’s disk or computer, or for any loss of data damage, or liability that may occur from patron use of the library’s computer.

Unattended Children Policy

Policy Statement:

It is the goal of the Nortonville Public Library to provide our customers with a safe, calm place, free from distractions. Library users are encouraged to read, study, research, write, select materials, consult with library staff and enjoy our space.

As a tax-supported entity, all who enter here own this library. Therefore, all patrons have an implicit obligation to contribute to the maintenance of that atmosphere.

Anyone exhibiting disruptive behavior will be asked to leave the library grounds.

The library is not responsible for children left unattended at the library. The library does not provide daycare services.

Staff Role:

The library staff members are employed to serve the legitimate reference, information, and media needs of the public. They are not social workers, police or daycare providers. If a library user seems to be placing a staff member in the position of providing non-library related functions, the staff member may terminate the interaction.

Regulations:

1. The library welcomes and encourages children to use its facilities and services. However, the responsibility for the care, safety and behavior of children using the library rests with the parent/guardian and not with the library staff.

2. Children six and under shall not be left unattended in the library under any circumstance. They must be accompanied by a parent/guardian or caregiver who is at least twelve years old and ensured by the parent/guardian to be a responsible person. Library staff members may contact authorities in the event a child under the age of seven is left unattended in the library, or the parent, guardian or caregiver fail to directly supervise the child.

3. Inappropriate behavior will not be tolerated. Staff will ask children to comply with library rules or instruction. Children whose behavior is disruptive will be asked to leave the library grounds. If a child is not able to leave the library without an adult, he/she should not be in the library alone. Children will be given the opportunity to call a parent or guardian to inform them of the circumstance.

4. Children should know how to reach an adult at all times. They may use the library business phone in an emergency.
5. At library closing time, or in the event of an early closing due to inclement weather, etc., if unattended children are still in the building, the authorities will be called to take custody of the children.
